LARS HÄGGLUND, född 1941, bosatt i Lund, började måla för c:a tio år sedan. Han bodde först några år i Göteborg, tog där starka intryck av "Göteborgskoloristerna". Flyttade därefter till Lund, bor sedan dess där.

Flera studieresor har Lars Hägglund gjort, bl. a. till England, Tyskland, Frankrike, Holland.

Huvudsakligen målar han i olja ; ständigt återkommande motiv är Landskapet och Staden. Ibland förekommer i både Landskapet och Staden identitetslösa figurer.

Påfallande hos Lars Hägglund är hans ständiga experimenterande med färgen.

LARS HÄGGLUND, born in 1941, residing in Lund, began painting about ten years ago. He first lived in Gothenburg for a few years, where he was strongly influenced by the "Gothenburg Colorists." He then moved to Lund, where he has lived ever since.

Lars Hägglund has made several study trips, including to England, Germany, France, and the Netherlands.

He primarily paints in oil; recurring themes in his work are landscapes and cities. Sometimes, identity-less figures appear in both landscapes and cityscapes.

What stands out about Lars Hägglund is his constant experimentation with color.

Modernist from Hörby Exhibits at S:t Petri

Lars Hägglund, born in Östra Sallerup but now residing in Lund, is this month's featured artist at Gallery S

Petri in Lund. Hägglund is a modernist. In fact, to such a degree that one almost requires an explanation from him for his motifs if one doesn't simply love his colors. He experiments with colors and has been committed to it since he started painting about ten years ago. His paintings are large, and the motifs are intense in narrow color schemes

Lars Hägglund belongs to the kind of artist who is a bit difficult to grasp if one must feel connected to the motifs. However, he has an insatiable drive to experiment with colors, sometimes almost obsessively. He chooses his motifs from nature. In recent years, he has started to add figures to the landscapes, something he hadn't done in the early years.

If we look only at colors, Lars Hägglund was born in Östra Sallerup. He has lived in Lund for several years and spent some time in Gothenburg. He has made several study trips to the continent, with experiences that have left a deeper impression on his creative thinking.

"I started painting about ten years ago. At that time, I was studying and needed something to do. So I thought I'd try painting. And then I kept going," says Lars Hägglund.

And he's still doing it today. Today he is a part of the crowd, debuting with a bang and already making a name for himself. Lars Hägglund undoubtedly belongs to that group of artists who struggle for their art. Perhaps that's why he's so focused on modernism, sometimes so abstract that the viewer has to fight to feel anything for his work.
